

Lunch colloquia for doctoral supervisors

February

10

11am - 1pm

Gender challenge in research?

Ulfuna Undervisningshuset, lecture room L

Umeå Lecture room SÄLGEN A

Alnarp Stora sessionssalen

Professor Liisa Husu, Örebro University

Husu's research is predominantly focused on gender and equality issues in academia, research and science policy. Husu reported as an EU expert, the "Gender Challenge in Research Funding" and she also wrote the report "Towards a more equal University - an international overview of strategies and measures" on behalf of the Delegation for Equality in Higher Education. In this colloquium she will describe and discuss how gender should be integrated in supervision and the research environment.

March

10

11am - 1pm

Developing the ethical researcher: what are the roles of the supervisor, the candidate and the institution?

Ulfuna Undervisningshuset, lecture room K

Umeå Lecture room SÄLGEN A

Alnarp Stora sessionssalen

Ass. Professor Anne Lee, Stavanger University/ consultant UK

Through a series of examples and case studies, we will explore the different approaches that we can take to support the development of doctoral candidates as ethical researchers. Dr Anne Lee has written extensively about doctoral supervision and has led programmes for supervisors in Scandinavia, Europe, the Middle East and Africa. There is more about her work at www.drannelee.wordpress.com

April

5

11am - 1pm

Supervising PhD students across national, institutional and cultural boundaries – Some reflections from practice at SLU and beyond

Ulfuna Undervisningshuset, lecture room L

Umeå Lecture room SÄLGEN A

Alnarp Stora sessionssalen

Professor Sri Nadarajah, SLU

Nadarajah Sriskandarajah, often called Sri, is Professor emeritus at SLU, having retired recently from his Chair in Environmental Communication after a 10 year stint at SLU. He is engaged in the internationalization of environmental communication and has worked in a number of research settings worldwide. In this presentation Sri will share his own experiences of doctoral supervision and he will discuss the challenges and opportunities of working with international PhD students (sandwich students included) and the value of international PhD students as a resource in the process of internationalization at the university. Welcome to an interesting seminar with opportunities to exchange thoughts.

Welcome!

Cecilia Almlöv
Lotta Jäderlund

Educational Development Unit
Division of Strategy and Planning